HaHaHa

We can only imagine how interesting it would be to teach young children. Many teachers complain about their jobs and sometimes, it is for good reason. But, at the end of the day, they may also have some rather delightful stories to tell. If you have ever had to deal with fifth-grade students, you realize that they can throw a curveball at you every once in a while.

One of these students threw a curveball at the teacher and the Internet is laughing out loud. The teacher in this joke gave her fifth grade class an assignment. Get their parents to tell them a story with a moral at the end of it. The next day, the kids came back and, one by one, began to tell their stories.

Susie said "We live on a farm and I was collecting eggs from the hen house one day. I gathered the eggs and put them in my basket and set off running toward the house. While running I tripped over a rock and smashed all of the eggs." "So what's the moral of the story Susie?" Asked the teacher. "Don't put all of your eggs in one basket," said Susie.

Next it was Billy's turn to go. "We also live on a farm," said Billy. "We have incubators to help our eggs hatch. One night there was a thunderstorm and lightning knocked out the power to the incubators." "So what's the moral of that story Billy?" Asked the teacher. "Don't count your chickens before they hatch," said Billy.

The teacher turned to Janie. "Janie, do you have a story to share?" "Yes ma'am. My daddy told me a story about Aunty Trish. She was a Marine pilot in Desert Storm, and her plane got hit. She had to bail out over enemy territory, and all she had was a flask of whiskey, a pistol, and a survival knife. She drank the whiskey on the way down so the bottle wouldn't break, and then her parachute landed her right in the middle of 20 enemy troops. She shot 15 of them with the pistol, until she ran out of bullets, killed four more with the knife, till the blade broke, and then she killed the last enemy with her bare hands. "Good Heavens," said the horrified teacher. "What did your Daddy tell you was the moral to this horrible story?" "He said don't mess with Aunty Trish when she's been drinking."

A Prayer of St Francis
Most High, glorious God, enlighten the darkness of my heart
and give me true faith,
certain hope, perfect charity,
sense and knowledge, Lord,
and that I may carry out
Your holy and true command.
Amen
