Reflection

This is my Body. During the Passover meal the Jewish people remember God's saving deeds in the past. In this act of remembering, God's saving power is experienced in the present. Through the ritual meal of the last supper Jesus points to a future event, his crucifixion, in which his body will be broken and blood shed to inaugurate a new covenant between God and humankind. In the Eucharist we remember Christ's saving action and participate in its fruits.

Feast of the Body and Blood of Christ

This Sunday when we focus on the gift of God in Jesus and his gift to us in bread and wine let us reflect: St. Augustine, bishop of Hippo, put it this way in the 5th century:

“Be what you see, and receive what you are”

May we like Jesus allow our lives to be “taken, blessed, broken and shared” and in so doing become Eucharistic People.

Feast of the Sacred Heart

On Friday 7 June we celebrate the feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus—a day when we focus on the love of Jesus. May we take time to ponder how much

Jesus loves us individually and how we are called to be like him in giving expression to this personal love in our lives.

“May the Sacred Heart of Jesus fill you all with love that you burn and glow with it more and more.”

“The thought of God’s immense love and mercy come before me with a force I cannot describe.”

Mary MacKillop, 1869

Drapes—With today's feast of the Body and Blood of Christ we return to Ordinary Time next weekend in our Sunday celebration. Green is the sign of hope which carries us through the days and months ahead. Thank you for changing the drapes this morning.

Reflections: “By receiving into our hands the bread, blessed and broken, and the cup, poured and shared, we say “Amen” to becoming the same in Christ: blessed, broken, poured out and shared in love. We commune with God and he with us in the Eucharist so that just as earthly gifts are transformed into Christ so through us will be the entire world, and things in it.

May the Eucharist strengthen and embolden us to help God liberate and transform the world through how we spend our lives” Richard Leonard SJ

Celebrating the body and blood of Christ always calls us to do what he commanded: to share our lives as he did. When we dare to say "Amen," we proclaim, "Yes, we will receive what we are and be what we eat." Sr Mary McGlone csj

“True heroism is remarkably sober, very undramatic. It is not the urge to surpass all others at whatever cost, but the urge to serve others, at whatever cost.”
