Wise Words:
The Church must be a place of mercy freely given, where everyone can feel welcomed, loved, forgiven, and encouraged to live the good life of the Gospel.
- Pope Francis

Filled with the Spirit

Pentecost as a fitting conclusion to the fifty-day celebration of Easter. PENTECOST

Throughout this festive time we have reflected on the extraordinary gift that God has given us: eternal life through the life, death, resurrection, and ascension of Jesus. Like an advertisement on TV that is too good to be true: 'Wait! There's more!'

The gospel from John's account of Jesus' last Supper Discourse highlights the gifts already given and those yet to come. Jesus urges the disciples to pray for 'another Advocate to be with you always'. This means that God has already sent one Advocate - Jesus. Like a true advocate (this term refers to a legal defender) who helps, defends, and pleads a cause, Jesus has interceded for his disciples (see Jesus' High Priestly Prayer, Easter 7). Reading this solemnity's gospel from an Easter perspective, we know that this first Advocate held nothing back, not even his life. But now that he has ascended, God will send yet another Advocate and this time the Advocate will remain for ever. 'The Father who sent me' will also send the Holy Spirit.

Jesus assures his disciples that, far from leaving them, the Father and he will come to loving disciples and make their dwelling with them. John began the gospel with this assertion: 'The Word became flesh and dwelt among us'. Though the time of that historical dwelling among us has come to an end, in a more wondrous way Jesus and the Father - through the gift of the Spirit will dwell with disciples 'always'.

The Spirit is a truly lavish gift. Already John has told us that the Spirit will be our Advocate; the Spirit will also bring the presence of the Father and the Son to abide with disciples always. The Spirit does more. In the absence of the great Teacher/Rabbi (a frequent title for Jesus in John's gospel), the Spirit will continue to teach disciples by reminding them of the words and teachings of Jesus. The Spirit continues the presence and the work of Jesus.

Vocations Dinner for single men. 9th June. God has a plan for your life. You can only discover this if you are willing to stop and listen to his voice. Each first Thursday of the month there is a Holy Hour and dinner for single men who are open to the possibility that God might be calling them to the priesthood and want to explore this further. The evening provides an opportunity to pray together and to share. Contact Father Trenton van Reesch: cathedral@cg.org.au
