Reflection: Fishers of Women and Men

Peter is overwhelmed with shame over some of the things he has done, once he realises the miracle worker Jesus is. He is so filled with shame that he tells Jesus to leave him. But Jesus tells him not to be afraid. Even if he isn't such a great catcher of fish, he can take a shot at being a catcher of women and men. Jesus is willing to take him as he is.

Have you ever been overwhelmed at your inadequacy?

Have you ever been completely shamed over an action you committed? How did you get over it? Who reached out and told you to not be afraid?

We all have faults. But that is not an excuse to continue doing the wrong thing without remorse or accountability. It is our job to always struggle to improve ourselves, and to become less sinful and more saintly.

- ◆ How do you view self-improvement? How do you work on yourself and your faults?
- ◆ Do you have a close friend who is not afraid to tell you what your faults are, when you need to be told?
- ◆ Is there someone who is close enough to you to accept your criticism?
- ◆ How do you offer your negative feedback when you think it is needed? GPBS 5/2/2019
