Advent – Reflections

"Saviour" is the title to the pocket sized book of daily reflections for Advent produced by the Wollongong Diocese. The reflections are accompanied by artworks which are both beautiful and inspiring. Cost $2.

Religious Freedom and Protecting Gay Students' and Teachers' Dignity

Never has a student or a teacher been excluded from a Catholic School in the Archdiocese because they were gay. Every student is enrolled and every teacher is employed on the basis that there will be a partnership between school and individual on the basis of respect for the Church and its teachings. Respect for respect is the key. The politicisation of this issue will only result in a failure of that tenet and promote situations where conflict is inevitable

Pope Francis – On the Call to Holiness

Remember that the call to holiness we're exploring here is also and at the same time a call to build the Reign (Kingdom) of God. The two are inseparable. You will experience great happiness in your life when you learn the art of self-giving love and give yourself to this mission, body and soul.

In a sense, we're each called to become a 'contemplative' in the midst of a busy life of service and love. Being a contemplative doesn't mean withdrawing to a quiet place and never coming back. It means, rather, loving silence while interacting with others; finding peace and quiet while working hard for justice; seeking prayer while serving your family, community, or the Church.

Engagement with the world is not 'second best' to prayer and contemplation. They go hand in hand. The pathway to interior peace and holiness is the same as the pathway to building up the Reign (Kingdom) of God. It isn't so much that we have accepted an arbitrary call to mission as that our very lives, oriented to God and flowing from the Spirit, are a mission.

Cooma Parish Pastoral Council

The Council met on Wednesday evening and reflected on its role in the Parish, in light of the discussions at the Plenary Council Listening Session. There is much room for a PPC to be reflective and visionary as well as busy doing things in the Parish. How this is balanced is the key to for the PPC to be effective in 'leading' the Parish on its mission to be Christ's disciples in our daily world. On a practical side, the PPC decided to ask the Finance Committee to purchase a new keyboard for the church as the present one is failing fast. The next meeting of the Council will be on Wednesday 23rd January.

World Mission Sunday

The envelopes for the appeal didn't arrive in time for last weekend's Masses. But never fear! They arrived this week, so please take an envelope and make a sacrificial offering over the next couple of weeks and return your offering and place it on either collection. Catholic Missions rely on our assistance to care for so many people across the world. It is through caring that we proclaim the Gospel to them.

St Vincent de Paul Conference –The Conference recently presented to St Patrick's Parish School certificates of appreciation for raising over $3 000 for the Winter Appeal and nearly $2 000 for the Drought Appeal.
